COMMENDS THE SPEECH OF SECRETARY ROOT.

Rev. Geo. E. Lovejoy, in a sermon on "The Dignity of Citizenship" delivered Sunday night at South Congregational church, condemned the prevailing laxity displayed by voters with regard to the primaries, where the selection of public officials are made. He also commended in strong and emphatic manner the courage of Elihu Root for his expose of the demoralizing character of "yellow journalism," with a wish that there were more such men to publicly denounce the evil.

Mr. Lovejoy spoke as follows:

In an eloquent address in which he asserted his rights under the government, Paul the heroic champion of truth and righteousness declared in words both strong and exultant his citizenship as a Roman—"I am a citizen of no mean city." It seems clear that to him, citizenship meant very much, both in the rights, and the honors connected with it.

It might be interesting to glance at the circumstances which provoked such a declaration, but for the lack of time we must pass these by and come directly to the theme of the hour which I trust may prove timely and profitable—"The Dignity of Citizenship." The highest type of manhood is that which embraces all the relationships of life. That man will be in best conformity to the Divine will who repudiates no claim that confronts him in society at large.

Society has a right to underrate that man's religion who is unresponsive to the manifold needs of the community in which he dwells—its social, educational, industrial, governmental, no less than its spiritual needs. Let it not be forgotten that the pure-minded faultless One who spent the greater part of His life in the obscure township of Nazareth proclaimed the nobility of Christian citizenship, when, in announcing His mission, He declared: "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many. And it behooves all who would be His true followers and have heavenly citizenship, to remember that He sends them forth into the highways and byways of society to regenerate it by a concern for its highest good. It is no small part of religious duty to make the townships, the cities, the commonwealths in which we live and have the benefits of citizenship—like the commonwealth of heaven; like the city that hath foundations whose builder and maker is God. Coming now to a more minute analysis of our theme, I sumbit:

1. A dignified citizenship is distinguished by a regard for, and an effort to create righteous public sentiment.

That is a trite and true, as well as humorous statement made by a certain leader of popular thought, when he says, "The small philosopher is a great character in New England, his fundamental rule being, to guess at the half in any matter, and then multiply it by two, and he added with much emphasis, that "full popular enlightenment is popular sanity." What is popular enlightment but the product of the sound minds of the community. Minds that have reached out and grasped the great questions that relate to the moral, social, intellectual, political and industrial interests of that community. Carlyle once remarked respecting the perils of a dim enlightenment in old England: "We must destroy the faith of the people in the penny newspaper." I ask you to recognize with much seriousness the fact that the willingness of the English people to pin their faith to cheap newspapers was not peculiar to the inhabitants of the British isles, for the American mind has a very ample supply of published cheap thought. And every community has its propogators of unpublished cheap thought, cheap talk, and cheaper, more corruptible deeds. And I maintain that one of the first duties of all high minded citizens is to break down the faith of the people in that which is erroneous and pernicious, misleading and revolutionary in unrighteous public sentiment. Oh, for a hundred Elihu Roots to give the people of all parts of the land such an expose of the demoralizing character of what is known as "yellow journalism," by which the unstable and the thoughtless are easily influences to anarchistic recklessness. Righteous public sentiment is the highland spring from which flow the streams that will bless society, as the Pieria spring carries health, vigor and cheer to those who come to its overflowing brink. The crowning glory of good citizenship is that it is unselfish. It is loyal to truth and righteousness although it stands solitary in the land. It is outspoken when evil and iniquity are rife in the community, and asserts itself without fear or favor. Notice further that

2. A Dignified Citizenship will seek for the elevation of such men to official positions as will be the exponents of righteous sentiment. We have heard it very frequently stated that there are so many things about the details of political elections that are repulsive and disgusting to honest, highminded citizens that they feel compelled to divorce themselves from any relationship whatever with political life. But we raise the question, does not such a course seem to be strongly inconsistent with the course men pursue in business life, and common everyday affairs?

Here is a mercantile house of high standing, doing an immense business. It embodies culture, wisdom, integrity, prudence and all of the sterling qualities essential in successful business enterprise. The large number of the individuals who compose that firm, or who are carrying on its trade were not at the preliminary political meetings, the other evening, because they were unwilling to be mixed up with political life. But tomorrow 150 agents are to be sent out to represent that firm and its varied interests. Who will make the selection for them?

Your illiterate, profane vulgar agitator on the street corner tells you that we have had enough of brains and culture and business ability in the selection of those who are to represent the wants of the community; and the men who cheer his coarse remarks are the ones who will hold the reins of political power in the near future. And we contend that the absentees from the important preliminary political meetings have by their unwillingness, in the past, to exert an influence in the selection of a different class of men—the absentees I say—have yielded an acquiesence to what the revolutionary communistic leaders propose to do.

But your sagacious business men in that mercantile establishment do not act thus. They have a generous respect for all their humbler employes, but they say they cannot leave wholly in their hands the selection of agents to represent them in the business world. They propose to have a hand in it. Said the late Rev. Dr. Dale, "the plea that the discharge of political duty is inconsistent with the maintenance of spiritual duty ought to be denounced as a flagrant piece of hypocrisy, and the time may come when those who refuse to vote, at any and all occasions of importance, will be subjected to church discipline, like those who refuse to pay their debts;" and, he adds, "neglect of the duties of a voter is a crime against the nation." We are told that sometimes, in ancient Athens, previous to elections, the streets were swept with a vermilion colored cord. In the assemblies which Demosthenes addressed at the Pnyx, no important law could be passed unless 6000 votes in its favor were deposited in the urns. To secure an audience of the necessary size, servants of the state were sent through the market place with a rope chalked red, and whoever received a stain upon his toga—as that never loitering line stretched from side to side of the streets, was fined as an enemy of the state, and this of course would brand him as unworthy of the distinction of a good citizen. Compulsory voting was the rule in old Athens, and we wish it might become a rule in every section of this land. A law of Pythagoras pronounced every man infamous who, when questions of public moment were before the people did not take sides, and one whose name is enrolled upon the bright scroll of the eminent statesmen of this commonwealth very often declared that the citizen who neglects his political duties is a public enemy.

In one of our western cities an election committee announced that "the day had gone by when it could be expected that the cultivated class in our towns and cities will take an active part in politics." But it happened that a certain minister of the gospel who occupied a pulpit in that city went down to the ballot boxes of a corrupt ward and challenged voters on several different occasions, although he was nearly alone in his thankless business. The opposing party put three roughs near him, and, although it is said they did not attack him physically, they filled the place with profanity and obscenity, and tried to drive away all decent men by their clamor. The minister, we are told, held his place, threatened prosecution against lax officers behind the ballot boxes, and the result was that a dark ward was illuminated if not by noontide brightness, at least by the twilight glimmer of righteous politics.

What did the minister go there for? Some would answer to meddle with affairs not his own. But all lovers of righteousness may answer he went there to look after affairs that were his own. A man, whether he be a minister or a coal heaver, has no rights which he has not the courage to assert and defend. While good men are busy in the churches would it not be well to have good men guard lest the devil captures the communities for which the church is built.

3. Again, the best citizenship is manifested in the public spirit and philanthropy it directs. The apostle whose words are quoted at the beginning of this address claimed to be a citizen of no mean city. The inference is natural that mean men were not in the majority in that place. Mean men can convert a Paradise into a Sahara of sterility and stagnation. Ancient Tarsus was certainly what might be called in our day, a model twn. It coins reveal its greatness. It at one time exulted in the name metropolis. Strabo says that in all that related to philosophy and general education it was even more illustrious than Athens. This regard for intelligence must have been the product of that public spirit which in modern times has been manifested in efforts to promote general intelligence. The principle which gives true nobility to citizenship is that which actuates individuals to do something for the general thrift and intelligence of the community. I am of the number who hold to the view that it is far more commendable for a city or township to erect its own public libraries and hospitals and school buildings than it is to appeal to a Carnegie, or a Rockefeller, or some rich magnate who never was in the place, to put up such structures for the people. What Wilberforce and Howard did in special departments of philanthropic usefulness, your average citizen may accomplish for society about him if he robes himself in the mantle of self-forgetfulness.

What the heroes of history have done in patriotic fervor for a common cause, the individual citizen may accomplish within the circle of his daily life, if he loves and lives for the community which affords him the blessings of free government. Good citizenship is patriotism manifested for the municipality or the township. And as some men have become first in the hearts of their countrymen by what they have wrought for the nation at large, so will the devoted citizen be regarded with an esteem almost equal to reverence, if his constant endeavor tends to the improvement and gladdening the life of his fellows.

4. And now lastly, the best citizenship is in accord with the purest religious spirit of the age.

An irreligious community is about the meanest of all communities.

By irreligious I mean one that is so in the broadest sense. A community where atheism holds sway. A community where there is no Sabbath, or where its sacred quiet is broken up by disorderly gatherings and noisy brawls. A community where sanctuaries are neglected and the worship of Bacchus, or the goddess of pleasure takes the place of that claimed by Jehovah.

Now I maintain that the individual who lines up on the side of religion most honors himself as a citizen and will honor the community in which he dwells. I am not now speaking of any one form of religion in preference to another. I am not advocating the claims of any sect or any ism; but simply contend for a reverential spirit toward all that eminates from faith in the Bible, a consciousness of a supreme God and a high-minded following of His standard of righteousness.

In a republic like our own the choicest institutions of the people, those that conserve their highest welfare are always imperilled.

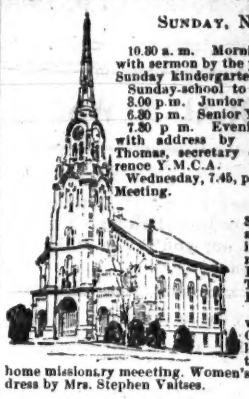

At this time more than any other since we gained our independence and opened our arms to the people of other lands are we threatened with peculiar dangers. At this time when immigration is bringing so many thousands to our shores, we must aim to keep our standards and citizenship high.

For one I believe in immigration from the lands beyond to these American shores. I believe it is one of the greatest avenues through which this world is to be brought to loyalty to Christ. But still I believe that it exposes this republic to imminent peril unless evangelizing forces meet and influence it. Look at one fact that during the brief space of one month 43,261 immigrants arrived at Castle Garden, N. Y., a greater number than ever before reached our shore in a single month. The probable incoming of the year was put by the secretary of the Board of Emigration of New York City at 400,000. Have you and I any duties devolved upon us in face of such facts? What shall we do with and for this flood which is pouring in upon us from anarchistic Russia, rationalistic Germany, and communistic France? Meet them with progressive thought? Yes. Meet them with American education? Yes. Meet them with our higher social culture? Yes. But when we have done all this does our duty end? Nay rather, do we not leave undone much that we owe this land we love if we do not meet them with an open Bible and the evangelizing truths of our American Christianity.

I am no alarmist but I would seek to develop a national concern which will make us as citizens of a glorious republic sensible of our responsibilities. If we can live, speak and act upon the high plane of Christian citizenship on which so many have stood before us, if we can permeate our political, social and business life with that spirit which makes for righteousness, then the prosperity, peace and well being which has marked our past will distinguish us in the community, the commonwealth and the nation and we shall maintain the dignity of American citizenship.

KEEPING TAB ON THE WORLD

National Interest Centered In the New York Election on Account of the President's Interposition Through Root Against Hearst—The Usual Pre-election Claims Made by Both Sides—Oil Trust Fined $5,000. Mayor Johnson Runs First Three Cent Trolley In Cleveland.

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Big San Francisco Graft Hunt.

Francis J. Heney, who convicted United States Senator Williams and other land sharks on land frauds in Oregon, has been retained by the citizens of San Francisco to fight the city grafters. For this purpose Rudolph Spreckels has guaranteed $100,000, to be collected among the citizens. The desperation to which the city was reduced by recent acts of lawlessness was indicated by the fact that more than 5,000 revolvers had been purchased by citizens during the week. President Wheeler of the University of California in a public address said that feeling had been wrought to such a pitch that if violence should be done to any of the reform chiefs he believed public indignation would not stop short of death to the perpetrator. He said that every time Heney walked into the courtroom he took his life in his hands. Abraham Ruef continued to lay claim to the office of district attorney, by virtue of appointment by Acting Mayor Gallagher, and his attitude indicated that if confirmed in his position he would take the proposed investigation away from the grand jury and submit the charges to the Bar association.

Francis J. Heney.

Ruef is commonly known as the boss of the city, and he is charged with being in league with the acting mayor of the city and supervisor to prevent exposure of wholesale corruption. Judge Graham was appealed to, but he refused to recognize either Ruef or Langdon as district attorney. Attorney General Webb said that if necessary he would appoint Heney a deputy in order to get evidence before the grand jury.

Oil Trust Fined $5,000.

A fine of $5,000 and costs was imposed upon the Standard Oil company of Ohio by Judge Banker at Findlay. This is the limit for one offense, but as the law stipulates that each day that the illegal combination is carried on constitutes a separate offense it is possible for the court to impose an aggregate of $6,000,000 in fines. The defense was allowed forty days in which to file a bill of exceptions, and sentence was suspended sixty days to give time for a petition in error. The case was heard before a jury composed largely of farmers. John D. Rockefeller stands indicted on a similar charge, but his case will be deferred until the trust case shall be settled by the higher courts.

Oil Trust Beats Ohio.

The claim of the state of Ohio for fines against the Manhattan Oil company amounting to $270,000, which was brought by Attorney General Ellis at Columbus, was rejected by the courts. The corporation admitted that it had not paid the tax, but contended that it was exempt.

Mayor Johnson In Contempt?

The Cleveland Electric Railway company has petitioned the supreme court at Washington to restrain Mayor Johnson and other Cleveland officials from interfering with the operation of one of their lines pending the decision of the supreme court on an appeal now before it. Johnson had contended that the company's franchise on certain streets expired in 1905, while the company held that they ran until 1914. Subsequently it was said that the mayor had ordered the police to prevent the company from running cars on these streets.

Wins Fight For Eight Hour Law.

Another test of the federal eight hour law was won by the government at Cincinnati when the jury found the Sheridan-Kirk Contracting company guilty in constructing the Ohio river dam at Fernbank. Employment agencies said it was impossible to get men at the wages offered for an eight hour day.

Hooe Guilty of Perjury.

A verdict of perjury was returned by a Pittsburg jury against the negro Hooe for swearing to intimate relations with the wife of Augustus Hartje in connection with Hartje's suit for divorce. The charge to the jury was made by Judge Fraser, who heard the divorce case, but who had not rendered his opinion. It was thought that the verdict would be in favor of Mrs. Hartje. The conspiracy charges against Augustus Hartje and others come up for trial next.

Arkansas Fines Packing Company.

The state of Arkansas has won a notable victory in its campaign against the Hammond packing company, Judge Winfield of Little Rock sustaining the motion that the Hammond Packing company be fined $10,000 because the officers of the company failed to testify before the commissioner in the recent Chicago hearing.

New York Anarchists Raided.

For the second time within a week a meeting of anarchists was broken up by the New York police. Several of the speakers, including the leader, Emma Goldman, were arrested. Three of the prisoners who had been arrested at a previous meeting had been committed by the magistrate, but were out on bail furnished by Bolton Hall. The purpose of the meeting appears to have been the glorification of Czolgosz, the slayer of President McKinley.

POLITICAL

Metcalf Tackles Jap Problem.

By direction of the president, Victor H. Metcalf, secretary of commerce and labor, has been hurrying to San Francisco to investigate the causes responsible for the exclusion of Japanese children from the public schools of that city. This action indicated the profound interest and concern of the president over this threatened impairment of our relations with Japan. Secretary Metcalf's mission has been communicated to the Japanese government, with the assurances of the administration's desire to observe all treaty obligations. Should the San Francisco authorities fail to realize the effect of their policy upon these obligation is understood that the president will consider the power of the government to enforce treaty guarantees. It is also reported that some of the Japanese restaurant keepers of San Francisco have been boycotted.

League Nominations Saved.

In a decision reversing the lower court the New York court of appeals on Tuesday affirmed the right of the Independence league of New York city to make nominations by multiple petitions. This was heralded as another Hearst victory, although it affected only the candidates who had been thrown out.

Pennsylvania Graft Charges.

Taking up the gantlet thrown down by the regular Republican leaders, State Treasurer Berry of Pennsylvania filed with Attorney General Carson a detailed statement of the overcharge and irregularities in connection with the completion of the $13,000,000 state capitol. He said there was a scheme of bidding by which the prices bid for work exceeded the bid many fold. Attorney General Carson replied that the proofs were insufficient to substantiate Berry's conclusions and refused to act. The North American has offered to duplicate for $1,000,000 the entire metal furniture, for which the state was charged $2,000,000.

Moody and Knox on Stump.

Attorney General Moody and United States Senator Knox made speeches for the regular Republican ticket in Pennsylvania, but both took occasion to enforce national issues and to declare that local and municipal abuses within the party should be remedied.

First Alaska Delegate.

Frank H. Waskey, who is the first delegate from Alaska to the national congress, has reached Washington. His home is at Nome, near the arctic circle. He was elected on a nonpartisan ticket, representing the interests of the miners.

The Canned Speech Campaign.

Phonographed campaign speeches are not an entire novelty, but the Hearst campaign in New York has gone this idea one better by sending abroad throughout the state phonographs of Hearst oratory, with moving picture attachments. The speech lasts six minutes, after which moving pictures go on for about ten minutes. The pictures show Mr. Hearst in the act of delivering his speech and the hand shaking scene that followed. It follows him to his carriage and shows his carriage moving through the crowd to the station and the pulling out of the train amid the cheers of a throng of people. The biograph also throws on the screen cartoons and mottoes.

Croker Against Tammany.

An event which was thought to have important bearing on the result in New York was the statement by Senator McCarren, the Brooklyn Democratic leader, who bolted Hearst, that a cablegram had been received from Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany, as follows: "Congratulate you on manly stand you have taken, win or lose."

Root Speaks For Roosevelt.

The heavy gun in the closing days of the New York campaign on the Republican side was a speech by Secretary of State Root at Utica. The secretary said that the president regarded Hearst as wholly unfitted to be governor—in fact, as an insincere demagogue. He declared that Roosevelt and Hearst stood as far apart as the poles. He said that the words in the president's first message dealing with those responsible for the assassination of McKinley in which he referred to the exploiter of sensationalism he had Hearst specifically in mind. Root said also that what the president thought of Hearst then he thinks of him now.

Moran to Run For President.

In an address at Northampton, Mass., John B. Moran, the Democratic candidate for governor, said definitely that if his strength continued and assuming his election as governor he would take the field two years hence as a candidate for the presidency.

EXECUTIVE

To Study German Tariff System.

The state department announced that James L. Gerry, chief of the customs division of the treasury department, and N. I. Stone, tariff expert of the department of commerce and labor, will accompany Census Director North to Berlin to confer with German tariff experts regarding changes in our customs administration. The object is to ascertain what it is that the German manufacturers expect of us in the way of concessions under their new tariff system.

Troops to Overawe Indians.

For the past two weeks United States troops have been gradually surrounding the renegade Ute Indians in Wyoming, more than 1,000 men being engaged in the capture. A skirmish occurred on Wednesday between a band of the Utes and troops of the Tenth cavalry on Bitter creek. The troops had captured a number of ponies and were driving them away when 100 armed Utes surrounded the cavalrymen and stampeded the ponies, recovering all but five. The Utes were engaged in hunting near their camp on Powder river. Several hundred Cheyennes joined the Utes.

A Woman as Federal Attorney.

Miss Mary Grace Quackenboss was appointed special assistant United States district attorney at New York, being the first woman to hold such a position. She is to assist in the prosecution of an employment bureau, indicted by the grand jury for sending men to the lumber camps of Florida in a state of peonage.

SCIENTIFIC

Peary Gets Farthest North.

After more than a year in the arctic region, Commander Robert E. Peary got back in touch with civilization Nov. 2 and sent word from Hopedale, Labrador, that he had beaten the farthest north record. He had reached 87 degrees 6 minutes. This took him within 174 geographical miles, or 200.36 statute miles, of the pole. The best previous record was 86 degrees 34 minutes, made in 1900 by the Duke of Abruzzi. Before that Nansen held the record of 86 degrees 4 minutes, made in the Fram. Peary's best previous record was 84 degrees 17 minutes.

Vaccination For Germ Diseases.

Sir Almeroth E. Wright, the noted London physician, who is credited with the discovery of the opsonic index, which indicates the power of the blood to destroy disease germs, is now visiting in this country and delivered an address at the Philadelphia College of Physicians. He said he had reached the conclusion after much experimentation that bacteriological inoculation is the best means to fight any disease that owes its inception to germs, not excepting even tuberculosis. The general plan of treatment is the same with that as with other diseases. After the opsonic test on the patient's blood the vaccine is introduced into the body until the blood is sufficiently strengthened to throw off its impurities.

RELIGIOUS

Mrs. Eddy Meets Reporters.

A formal prearranged interview was given on Oct. 30 to eleven reporters from Boston and New York by Mary Baker G. Eddy, the venerable founder and leader of the Christian Science church at Pleasant View, her Concord (N. H.) home, for the purpose of disproving recent statements to the effect that she was totally incapacitated by age or disease, or both. The statement had been made that Miss Pamelia Leonard, a Brooklyn healer, had been impersonating the Christian Science leader on her daily drive. Several questions had been agreed upon to be put to Mrs. Eddy, but the reports conflicted as to her bearing when these questions had been put to her by the appointed spokeswoman. To the first question, "Are you in perfect health?" Mrs. Eddy replied, with a bow, "Indeed I am," speaking in a deep, level tone of voice, but with a slight quiver. To the next question, "Have you any other physician than God?" she replied: "No physician but God. His everlasting arms are about me. That is enough." As she said this she turned toward the door, in front of which her carriage was waiting. In reply to the question, "Do you drive daily?" she said simply, "Yes." The fourth question, "Have you the management of your own affairs?" was unanswered. She walked along the width of the piazza, but her hands shook as with a slight palsy when she was helped into the carriage. Edward M. Pierson, secretary of the state of New Hampshire, was present with the reporters to positively identify Mrs. Eddy, whom he had known for many years. He issued a statement that it was Mrs. Eddy and that she appeared to keep her faculties. An official of the household said that the gates of Pleasant View henceforth would be closed to the world forever. All agreed that the woman showed the effects of her eighty-six years in a marked degree and that she was extremely weak.

Mrs. Mary B. G. Eddy.

PARTROLMAN OBSERVES 25th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

The 25th anniversary of their marriage was observed Sunday by Patrolman and Mrs. Walter A. Chandler at their home, 109 East Haverhill street.

Besides their local friends and relatives, many were present from Boston, Cambridge, Springfield, Andover and Methuen.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler were the recipients of many costly presents from their large number of acquaintances. Among the gifts were a fancy china tea set, one dozen silver spoons, forks and knives, silver soup ladle, fancy silver shaving mug and brush, silver sugar bowl with gold lining and a number of fancy vases and bric-a-brac.

An anniversary supper was served at 8 o'clock, after which the gathering was entertained with songs and stories and musical selections.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler were married in St. Mary's church, November 4, 1881, by Rev. P. J. McGovern. Their married life has been one long line of happiness. Their union has been blessed with five children, only three of whom are living, however. The oldest is Emily C., Bessie C. is employed at Woolworth's five and ten cent store, and the youngest, Rose M., attends the John R. Rollins school.

Walter A. Candler was born in London, England, August 22, 1862. He received his education in the schools of his native town, coming to Lawrence, February 22, 1875. Six years afterwards he married satelle M. Mallon.

RUGS In these days of modern improvements and hard wood floors the carpet rug is in great favor. It is cheaper than the regular carpet and often times handsomer. Then again, it's nothing to put down; anyone can do it, and during house cleaning time the hardest task of all is entirely eliminated. Carpet Rugs are fashionable, and they've come to stay. Our exhibition embraces 200 or more patterns in Wiltons, Body Brussells, Tapestry Brussels and Smyrnas.

Election Suggestions.

Andover cast a splendid vote on election day. Never but twice has there been a larger ballot cast in precinct one, and the result was very creditable to the dominant party. In the State at large, while the victory is gratifying, the size of the vote secured by Moran furnishes food for a great deal of thought.

When a man can, in Massachusetts, secure nearly 200,000 votes upon a platform that has for its chief foundation stone the doctrine of discontent and unrest as preached by the yellow journals and the demagogues, it is a serious situation. Not that there are no reasons for unrest, and not that there are no reasons for distrust, but that men can believe in such remedy and in such men to apply the remedy, is the serious phase of the question. Our own town is a fair illustration of the way in which the heresies of Moranism and Hearstism took hold of the people at large. Good judges agree that not less than a hundred of the voters who usually vote for the republican candidates voted for Moran. Many of the men who so voted stated openly that they believed the time was ripe for such a man as he, and for a rebuke to be administered to the party in power. They could give no reasons for their confidence in Moran, nor would they express any reasons for their distrust in present leaders, enough for them that they believed it was time to "shake things up".

If this state of mind means anything, it means that the next year is to be one of the most important periods in our government. Not important to the great government and political leaders alone, but even more important to the people at large. It should be a period of stock taking and comparing of inventories. Through such work the people should become informed of actual conditions, and be inspired to the right ways of correcting abuses and promoting real reforms.

Dishonest leaders are sure to disappear, and honest ones are bound to be misunderstood, but the sifting must come without any such influences of passion and hate as we have seen actively engaged during the past few months.

The individual communities have rallied in a splendid way during the past few weeks, and their work showed on Tuesday is a renewed pledge of Massachusetts to high character in public life, but the great work is ahead. The individual communities must each and every one begin now the campaign for a larger and more universal confidence in the State and the Nation, that shall hereafter make impossible the rise of such leaders as Massachusetts and New York have seen this year.

We undoubtedly need a house cleaning in public life, but we don't need to use either fire or flood to accomplish it.

Editorial Cinders.

The officials in charge of the election in Andover on Tuesday deserve some very hearty congratulations upon their promptness and efficiency. One of the largest votes ever cast was handled, and unless our memory is at fault the count was completed and a report made earlier than ever before since the present system was in use. While all of the helpers deserve praise for their good work, a large share of the credit should go to the warden, Mr. Frank H. Hardy, who has devoted a great deal of time and intelligent interest to the organization of this important part of Andover's election machinery.

****

It is good news that Mr. Geo. R. Hinman, the instructor at Phillips who was recently struck by an automobile and seriously injured, is slowly recovering. From the stubborn fight before Judge Stone, at the hearing of the case against the man in charge of the auto, it would appear that a very important question as to "reckless auto driving" may be involved in the affair. The general public has very little doubt as to the real facts supported by testimony that is considered reliable, but it is not always easy to prove the truth in a court of law.

****

"All Hallowe'en" is all right, but does it justify quite so much heedlessness and hoodlumism by the older boys? It is really the kids' time, and when the big boys kick up such a rumpus as they did last Wednesday night, it is time for the call of halt. There was too much rough house and too little healthful fun.

****

If there are any households in Andover where it was not thought that some member had fallen out of bed at the time of last Friday night's explosion, we have not yet heard from them. Meanwhile, what was it?

HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT

Malden Chauffeur to Answer to Charge of Reckless Driving.

A hearing was held before Judge Colver J. Stone, last Saturday morning, it being the outcome of the accident on October 8, in which George W. Hinman, an instructor in Phillips Academy, was severely injured and who is still confined to Dr. Clarke's sanatorium, but is rapidly gaining strength.

The accident happened on the Reading road about two miles from the top of Andover hill. Mr. Hinman was out for a stroll with two other instructors, H. F. Houghton and Philip S. Gilman and they were walking in the direction of Reading. An automobile suddenly came up behind them and struck Mr. Hinman who was nearer the centre of the road than the others. He was taken to Dr. Clarke's sanatorium where at first his life was despaired of, but he pulled through satisfactorily and is now nearly well again.

The automobile was owned by Mr. Presby of Malden and was driven by his chauffeur, Carl Blomerth, and he was accompanied by Mrs. Presby, Mrs. Bessie T. Burpee and Miss Caroline Bill of Malden.

At the hearing held on Saturday, Hugh Bancroft, son of General Bancroft of the Boston Elevated road and Francis Hurtubis, jr., two of the ablest lawyers in Boston, were the councils for the prosecution and defense respectively.

The chauffeur who was running the automobile was first called and testified that his name was Carl Blomerth and that he was running the machine at the time of the accident. The charge was then read by the court which stated that the defendant operated an automobile on the highway recklessly and without regard to the safety of the public.

Three witnesses for the prosecution were then sworn, Dr. C. E. Abbott, Mr. Houghton and Mr. Gilman. Mr. Houghton was the first to testify and he said that he was walking with Messrs. Gilman and Hinman at the time of the accident and was present when the auto struck the latter. He testified that the first warning of the approach of the machine was when it was about 200 feet behind him and coming at a rapid rate of speed. He immediately notified his companions but before they had had time to get out of the way the auto had struck Mr. Hinman. He added that the machine was going so fast that it carried Mr. Hinman 25 paces before he rolled onto the electric car track and a greater distance before the machine could be brought to a complete stop. He testified further in regard to what happened after the accident but which did not have any direct bearing on the charge.

On being cross examined by counsel Hurtubis, Mr. Houghton said that as he and his companions walked they occupied about 12 feet of the roadway and that they were not fooling as they went along. He said that he knew little about auto speeds but had an idea of the relative speed of vehicles going between 10 and 20 miles an hour. He thought that the machine was going more than 20 miles per hour.

Mr. Gilman corroborated the statements of Mr. Houghton in every particular and added that when he heard the auto coming he attempted to touch Mr. Hinman to warn him of the approaching danger but did not succeed as he was beyond his reach. He testified that Mr. Hinman was carried many feet before being dropped and that the machine went as far afterward as it had carried him. In his estimation the auto was going at about 30 miles an hour.

Dr. Abbott was then called and told of attending the injured man at the request of the ladies who were in the automobile. He said the injuries were very severe and it was extremely fortunate that he survived them.

Carl Blomerth, the chauffeur was called and he testified that he left Malden with his party at five minutes to four and had driven to Andover hill where he turned around and was on his way home when the accident happened. He said that he noticed the men walking on the road when he was at Carter's corner and that he immediately went to the left hand side of the road. He blew the horn at eight different times, the last time when about 12 feet from Mr. Hinman. Mr. Hinman, he said, immediately leaped to the left hand side of the road, directly in front of the machine and was struck. He was carried about 20 feet and the machine was stopped after running only 12 feet. He was positive that the machine was only going 15 miles an hour as he had looked at his speedometer just before the accident.

Mrs. Presby was the next witness called and she gave substantially the same evidence that her predecessor gave. The question of assistance was then raised and the reason given for not taking the injured man in the automobile was that she did not get out of the machine and acted on the advice of Mrs. Burpee who advised her not to do so.

Mrs. Burpee and Miss Bill were the last witnesses to testify and both corroborated the statements of the two former witnesses telling the exact story in regard to the speed of the automobile and to the action of the chauffeur in trying to avoid the accident. They also declared that Mr. Hinman actually jumped in front of the machine.

In summing up the case Counsel Hurtubis said that it was a clear case of mistaken speed, that on the testimoney of the prosecution neither of the witnesses could give any satisfactory limit at which the machine was going and that the four witnesses for the defence who have ridden a great deal were positive that the machine was not going over 15 miles an hour. He read several definitions of the word recklessness from different authorities and none of them could be applied to the case in question. He pleaded strongly for the chauffeur's acquittal.

Counsel Bancroft took exceptions to the arguments of his brother lawyer and spoke in strong terms of the prevailing conditions where chauffeurs run their cars at tremendous speeds, breaking the speed laws and having no regard for the safety of the public. He considered the present case one of extreme carelessness and thought that the offender should be dealt with accordingly.

Judge Stone then briefly reviewed the case and decided that the chauffeur should be held. He was ordered to furnish $100 bonds for his appearance at a session of superior court which will be held in Salem, the second week in January.

Earthquake or Explosion?

A profound mystery still surrounds the queer sound and shaking which the town sustained early last Saturday morning and no correct solution has yet been given for the strange occurrence. Some claim that it might have been an earthquake while others discredit this story and claim that it might have been an explosion. Whatever it was it has not been explained satisfactorily and possibly might never be.

The disturbance which occurred about quarter past one on Saturday morning shook the ground and buildings in every portion of the town and was accompanied by a sound similar to that of a muffled cannon roar. It lasted but a few seconds but long enough to awaken sleepers in almost every home in Andover and giving many a few sleepless hours until morning.

The shock was probably felt worse in the vicinity of Elm street and Washington avenue where the houses were shaken violently and where in some instances dishes were shaken from shelves and many windows were broken. Fortunately however, no one was injured and the damage done was slight. On Salem street the shock was also felt severely.

In Ballardvale, Wilmington, North Reading and Lowell Junction the shock was also felt but no damage was done. It was at first feared that it was a recurrence of the frightful powder magazine explosion that occurred in Tewksbury three years ago, but these fears were set at rest by reports from Lowell and Acton that the powder works there were intact. In view of the lack of any definite explanation many people attributed the disturbance to an earthquake, but on account of the comparatively small area affected the theory was not accepted as a fact.

Haverhill and other points in this section, outside those already mentioned, reported that no explosion had been heard, the disturbance being apparently confined along the portion of the western division of the Boston & Maine Railroad, between Frye Village and Wilmington junction.

THE GRANGE FAIR

The Annual Event Opened Successfully Last Night—Will Close Tonight.

The annual Grange fair was opened in the Grange hall last evening, and will continue this evening. The fair as usual is one of the attractions that is looked for from year to year, and on the opening night there was a large and enthusiastic attendance. The tables were well patronized and a goodly sum of money was realized. They are especially well decorated, and those in charge deserve great credit for the fine appearance.

On arriving at the hall the first thing to do is to have your clothes checked by James Grosvenor, who is at the door to attend to that part of the work. Then pass into the lower hall where supper is served in real Grange style, which needs no words of praise to those who have ever had the pleasure of dining with the Grangers. The menu consists of the following: Stewed or raw oysters, turkey supper, mince, squash, lemon, apple or cranberry pie, ice cream and coffee. Samuel H. Bailey has charge here and is assisted by F. M. Foster, Fred Howarth, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Ralph Bailey, Mrs. Charles Jameson. Milo H. Gould is head waiter and has an able staff, consisting of Misses Lucia and Caroline Burtt, Luella Phelps, Susie Cutler, Ethel Clark, Lucy Carter, Mary Bayle, Grace Jenkins, Helen Bailey, Anne Coleman, Gayton Abbot, Ralph Bailey and William Flint.

After supper go upstairs where you will see the beautifully decorated tables. The first one to come within your sight is the vegetable guess table, in charge of Edward W. Burtt. Guess the seeds in the squash and take the entire display. The next is the apron table which is well stocked and is trimmed in red, white and blue. Mrs. Milo H. Gould and Mrs. Gardner are in charge.

Next comes the china table which is ladened with all kinds of useful and ornamental dishes and fancy ware. The decorations are green and white, and Mrs. Mooar is in charge.

The children's table is very prettily trimmed with white, red and green, and is presided over by Miss Julia Brine.

The flower table is very attractive with its large display of cut flowers and plants, and decorations of ivy vines over white. Mrs. J. Harry Playdon is in charge and is assisted by Misses Anne Gillen and Eva Howell. The fancy table occupies the centre of the hall and is one of the prettiest. The decorations are yellow and white, and Mrs. George L. Burnham, Mrs. E. W. Burtt and Miss Lottie Hill are the committee. The grab bag and peanut grab are the attractions that come next in line with Mrs. James Feeney and Mrs. Charles A. Hill in charge.

The decorations on the vegetable table consist of the national colors, and Edward Boutwell is chairman of the committee. Mrs. Daniel Fitzpatrick has charge of the cake table, where the decorations are green and white. In the corner you can have your fortune told in an Indian tepee of green boughs. The candy table is in the ante-room at the top of the stairs and is prettily trimmed in green and white. All kinds of homemade candies can be bought from Misses Madeline Hewes or Caroline Burtt.

The Juvenile orchestra from Methuen gave a very excellent concert during the evening.

Barges will leave the square for the fair this evening at 6.30 and 7.30, and there should be a large attendance from the centre.

Pleasantly Surprised.

A pleasant surprise was held at the home of Mrs. Martha Lundgren on Whittier street, Saturday evening, when Arthur Donaldson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Donaldson, was surprised by about 25 friends.

Robert Hill in a few well chosen words, presented Mr. Donaldson with an exquisite smoking set, to which the latter responded, thanking those present and inviting them to make themselves at home.

Games and refreshments were served and the gathering broke up at a late hour.

Among those present were: Misses Elsie Eyres, Hannah Stansfield, Mary Stansfield, Clara Rheam, Jessie Sellars, Edith Lundgren, Bertha Robinson, Florence Collins, Mabel Sellars, Amy Chadwick, Elsie Badger, Jennie Hartman and Mary Manyon; Harry Henderson, Harold Buckley, Edgar Malone, Charles Taylor, Robert Hill, Chester Whitten, Robert Lochhead, Henry Donaldson, Joseph Houghton, William Lyle, Edward Young, Edward Roggeman and Thomas Chadwick.

Burglars' Rich Haul.

The beautiful residence of H. Bradford Lewis on Porter road was broken into Friday night and a quantity of silver ware stolen. The burglars gained an entrance by forcing a rear window and had access to the entire house.

The dining room and sideboard were ransacked and much valuable property taken, including silver spoons, knives, forks, and napkin rings.

The burglars removed a drawer and took it out of the house to a nearby field where they left it after taking the knives and spoons which were in it. It is possible that the burglars were those who have been at work in neighboring towns for some time.

The Tuesday Club at Home.

Notice of Art Exhibit.

The Punchard School will give, for the benefit of the athletic and art funds an exhibit of the Turner reproductions of works of Art, at Punchard Hall, Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 14th, Thursday afternoon Nov. 15th and Friday evening, Nov. 16th. This exhibit consists of two hundred carbon and platinum pictures of great works of great masters, in all variety of sizes from pictures two by two feet six, up to those five by four. All of these pictures are of the finest sort, some of them selling at from $50 to $75 each. The entire collection is valued at several thousand dollars. It is carefully catalogued, and catalogues may be obtained at the exhibit. This same exhibit has been shown repeatedly in cities like Boston, Cambridge, Somerville, etc., with great success. Some of these cities have had it repeated as many as eight times. This exhibit will afford an opportunity not only to enjoy a most pleasant and instructive afternoon or evening, but also to help on the causes for whose interests it is given. Tickets may be procured of any member of the school and at the door.

The Abbot Recital.

Madame Samaroff gave the first of the Abbot Academy Piano Recitals, Thursday afternoon, in Davis Hall, McKeen Memorial Building, and captivated every one by her beautiful playing of the remarkable programme.

It was, as she said, the programme that she liked the best and she played con amore from the first number to the last. The wide field that it covered would stagger many a professional pianist of larger experience than hers, but under her fingers every musical detail came out with ease and vividness.

Her technique is all that can be imagined in fluency and beauty, yet it is not technique alone that gives charm to her work, but real genius.

Where all the numbers were played so wonderfully, it seems idle to specify any in particular, yet the Chopin numbers call for special notice. The Sonata with its wondrous funeral march, the Etudes particularly the revolutionary one, and the mighty, rythmical swing of the polonaise, have never been equalled here. It seems to us that no such playing has been heard since the days of Madame Essipoff. Personally Madame Samaroff is very charming on or off the stage.

The next concert is to be given by the Kneisel Quartet, Dec. 3.

The Juvenile Missionary Fair.

One of the oldest features of Andover church life is the Missionary Fair which is conducted by the young people of the West church. The seventy-sixth year of the society shows no diminution in the success. This is interesting as this is not a case of "raising money for ourselves" the entire proceeds this year going to benevolence. Miss Emma Ward and Miss Carruth with those who helped them worked with enthusiasm and the result has amounted to about $130. The boys of the church had produced some marvels of the carpenter's art which with the fair have passed into history,—a patent ash sifter especially called forth the highest praises of all the furnace experts present.

That old fashioned love for beautiful needlework still survives was seen upon the work tables and many books might be written of the constantly vanishing wonders of the candy table and of the beauty of the vegetables and fruit. Those who skeptically began half down the supper menu card, after a half incredulous taste of their order went back to the start and worked with increasing wonder right through the list of dishes.

All enjoyed the evening and helped at the same time to give pleasure to the lonely and sick, to whom the proceeds of the Fair will all go.

THE STATE ELECTION

Large Vote Cast in Andover—Republicans Successful Throughout State.

It was clearly shown that much interest was taken in the contests for political honors by the voters of Andover on Tuesday when one of the largest votes, for an off year, was cast for state officers, 887 in precinct one and 166 in precinct two, a total of 1053 for both precincts. The day was ideal for the occasion and all day long, from the opening of the polls at 6.30 to 4.00 when they were closed there was a steady stream of citizens who desired to register their choice for office. The fight between Curtis Guild, jr., and John B. Moran for the governorship was without question the real issue in the election and as usual the town went strongly for the republican nominee. All the other republicans were given handsome endorsements and in every instance the local winners were victorious in the state and district.

The polls opened at six o'clock sharp when warden Frank H. Hardy read the warrant and the voting started, Henry Sweeney being the first to cast his ballot. The next four were Patrick A. Sullivan, Otis B. Keith, George W. Buchan and Robert D. Thomas. The voting kept up briskly during the morning and by 10.30 there were 400 ballots registered. The busiest hours of the day were between eleven and two when nearly 350 votes were cast. The counting started early and the good work done by the officers enabled the public to hear the results at an early hour after the polls closed. The following officers served; F. H. Hardy, warden; W. A. Allen, deputy warden; D. J. Moynihan, clerk; Daniel A. Collins, deputy clerk; Louis A. Dane, inspector; W. J. Doherty, inspector; Timothy J. Mahoney, deputy inspector; J. Frank Morse, deputy inspector; David Leslie, Patrick Dwane, Michael Welch and George W. Foster, counters. Precinct 2: Chester E. Matthews, warden; W. B. Hodgkins, deputy warden; Owen F. Caffrey, clerk; Michael J. Flaherty, deputy clerk; C. Northy Marland, inspector; Martin McKeon, inspector; John S. Dearborn, deputy inspector; Henry W. Platt, deputy inspector.

Abbot Academy.

On Saturday afternoon, Nov. 3, Mrs. Mary Wooster Mills of Cleveland, Ohio, gave to the school and to Andover ladies interested to come, a very interesting account of the Schauffler Memorial, and the work begun by the Rev. Henry Schauffler, now carried on by others, for Bohemians and Poles in that western city. With Mrs. Mills was Miss Frish, a Polish graduate of the Cleveland school, now working among the five thousand Poles and Bohemians of Holyoke, Mass. Mrs. Mills suggested that the school and the town should unite to furnish the third floor of the Schauffler Memorial to be called Andover Hall, in memory of the Andover days of the Schaufflers. This suggestion surely came without premeditation, but is it not a good one to act upon?

Miss Bosher is the guest of the school this week, and it is most pleasant to see her, in her respite from congenial work in Colorado College.

Miss Dorothea Day was the guest of the Y. W. C. A. over Sunday, and made two addresses that went straight to the mark.

THE 22ND ANNUAL MEETING

Andover and Woburn Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions Meet.

The 22nd annual meeting of the Andover and Woburn Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions was held Thursday, Nov. 1, at the Congregational church in Bedford. Mrs. E. Y. Hincks of Andover, president of the Branch, occupied the chair.

The following committee was elected to arrange for the May meeting, which will be held in Woburn: Mrs. J. B. Field, Lowell; Mrs. C. C. Goodwin, Lexington and Mrs. H. W. Hicks, Melrose Highlands.

Mrs. George V. Kervin of Malden, Mrs. J. T. Nichols of Wakefield and Mrs. C. F. Kingsbury of West Medford were appointed delegates to attend the board meeting in Portland, Me., November 13, 14 and 15. The fourth delegate will be named early next week.

The president asked the vice-presidents to inform themselves concerning the missionary work of the youthful organizations connected with the churches, and report to the Junior secretary before January.

Mrs. John E. Hammer gave a warm pleasantly worded greeting to the Bedford church and Mrs. Hincks responded gracefully.

It was stated that of the 48 English-speaking churches belonging to the branch 52 are giving to the Woman's Board.

The home secretary, Miss E. Josephine Wilcox of Medfield reported the home work and the same was accepted. Twenty-two of the auxiliaries made a gain of five per cent in contributions during the past year; $3400 is the sum appropriated to the Andover and Woburn branch for the coming year.

"Rock of Ages" was sung by Miss Plastridge of Bedford.

The corresponding secretary, Miss Elizabeth G. Redfern of Winchester gave an interesting resume of the work supported by the branch, including the Girls' International Institute of Madrid, Spain, of which the secretary said, "No other school in Spain does such varied work for girls as the Madrid Institute. As well as imparting knowledge, it seeks to promote Christian nurture and love. The girls of the Constantinople college are supporting a girl in school in Japan. The Institute at Guadalajara, Mexico, is quietly planting ideas of Christianity in that part of Mexico. The girls' seminary in Aintab, Turkey, is continuing to progress, and it is expected that the building destroyed by fire was completed about the first of October.

Miss Redfern spoke eloquently of the high ability, unselfish devotion and courageous efforts of the foreign missionaries.

Mrs. Whittemore reported the doings of the missionary conference held at Northfield last summer. She gained inspiration by the new manner and methods of presenting mission work

Andover Girls' Club.

There has been some change in the form of work with girls at the Guild this year. Previously the girls have met in small clubs, each with its own set of leaders, and each club has carried out its own program independently of the other clubs, though occasionally they have come together for a mass meeting. Although excellent work was done in this way, this year it was thought best for a number of reasons to unite all these clubs into one large self-governing body. Among the advantages of such a club are those which come from joining the General Federation of Working Girls Clubs—the opportunity to use their vacation house in Rockport—the meeting with other similar clubs, etc. But the chief advantage is in the fact that in this way more responsibility for the success of the club is thrown upon the club girls, who are fully capable of carrying it, and they become less dependent upon the leaders who meet with them and who necessarily change from year to year.

In addition to the club there are classes in home nursing, sewing, and cooking, made up of about forty girls. The cooking class is taught by Miss Gould of the Boston Grade School, and has, at its first meeting, made better muffins than were made in the Boston classes! The sewing class opens this week Friday, the class in home-nursing next Tuesday, and we shall hope for as good a record from them.

Organ Recital.

Mr. Bachelder gave his first organ recital of the season last Monday evening in Christ church. There was not a very large audience, not nearly as large as the excellence of the program and its performance merited. Mr. Bachelder gave only four numbers, but represented three schools, the French, the German, and the Italian. The first number, Guilmant's 5th Sonata, opus 80, was undoubtedly the best performance he has yet given. There were five movements, and it took forty minutes for its rendition.

Master Collins sang two solos, and his work was as good as ever. Barnby's "O ye that the Lord" was new to his audience, but it was thoroughly appreciated. He also sang "O rest in the Lord" with much feeling and expression.

The program:

Sonata, [No. 5], Op. 80 — A. Guilmant
- I. Allegro Apassionato [C minor]
- II. Adagio con molt espressione, [A flat major]
- III. Scherzo: Allegro, [C minor]
- IV. Recitativo:
- V. Choral et Fugue; Allegro

Alto Solo: "O ye that love the Lord" — Barnby
Chora: No. 28 B flat] — J. S. Bach
Prelude [G major] — V. A. Petrali
Alto Solo: "O rest in the Lord" — [from Elijah] Mendelssohn
Offertoire in A major — Battiste

The Committee for the United Study of Missions has recommended a number of books in connection with the subject for special study this winter, the "Islands of the Pacific". These books, eight in number, have been purchased by the Memorial Hall Library, and placed for public use in the case for new books. They include:

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Lucia Wardswort Griswold Merrill.

We think of it as only translation when a beautiful life ceases to gladden our home—our neighborhood. We recognize Heaven's claim on perfected Christian womanhood and manhood, and the claim of the perfected soul to its Heavenly rest and reward.

How seldom we realize our ideal of old age—as symbolized by the radiant sunset, the calm of evening time, but to what an unusual degree did Mrs. Merrill fulfil that ideal! How remarkably were her mental powers preserved, her interest in current affairs, her sympathy with the young! What a benediction was her cheerful, benignant face!

Well might peace be the crowning grace of a life filled through ninety-three years with Christian faith and service.

Mrs. Merrill was born in Fryeburg, Maine, August 10, 1813. In 1839 she became the wife of Rev. James H. Merrill, who was that year installed pastor of the Congregational church in Montague, Mass. Here her children were born, four of whom survive her. In 1856 Mr. Merrill became pastor of the West Parish church, where he remained for twenty-three years.

Of these twenty-three years in the toils incumbent on the wife of a pastor in a country parish, we cannot now speak in detail, but how many former parishioners "arise up and call her blessed!" What an example to them all was her patient continuance in well doing, her unshrinking obedience to duty, her care for the sick and needy, her loving kindness to all! One of her last labors there was the reorganization of the Juvenile Missionary society.

Her good service was not confined to West Parish. During the Civil War she spent much time in work with the Ladies' Aid Society, and was, for awhile, its president. Such friends of the soldier as Mrs. Wm. Marland, Mrs. David Gray, Mrs. Prof. Shedd, Mrs. Jackson and others were her aids. Meeting at the Town hall, fingers and sewing machines, made hundreds of garments, besides other articles too numerous to mention; and hundreds of barrels and boxes were despatched to the Sanitary and Christian Commissions. For a busy mother and careful pastor's wife, Mrs. Merrill's office here was no sinecure. How little can this generation appreciate the burdens of those war years on heart and hand!

Since making her home on Salem street, Mrs. Merrill buried her son, George C. Merrill, teacher of Physical Science in Phillips Academy, and her husband of blessed memory.

And now, after fifty years of seed-sowing and harvest among us, she has entered the celestial mansion, her Savior perpared for her. Long may her memory bless and inspire those who "a little longer wait" our summons.

S. E. J.

Obsequies.

KATHERINE FLANNERY.

The funeral of Mrs. Katherine Flannery, widow of the late Patrick Flannery, who died Wednesday October 31, was held Saturday morning from the late home, Highland road. High mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock, in St. Augustine's church by Fr. Morrison in the midst of a large number of friends and relatives.

At the offertory M. J. Mahoney, Jr., sang "Pie Jesu" and at the close of the mass, "I Love to Hear My Savior's Voice."

The bearers were James Hibberd, Peter Dugan, Michael Golden, Thomas Maloney, John Hoyt and Bernard McKerron.

Interment was in the family lot in St. St. Augustine's cemetery.

Ballardvale Mills Co. Reduces Hours of Labor.

Commencing last Wednesday the Ballardvale Mills Co. voluntarily reduced the hours of labor from 58 to 55 hours and granting all pieceworkers an increase of five per cent in wages.

This generous treatment of the employees is fully appreciated and will without doubt result in the continued and future prosperity of the company.

A NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT

A Public Court Trial in Which Prominent People Will Participate.

Among the most successful and popular entertainments of the times are the Mock Court Trials given under the direction of an expert, Col. A. V. Newton, the well known lawyer-lecturer of Worcester.

Many cities in various parts of the country have been greatly excited over them, as attested by the lengthy and favorable reports in the leading newspapers, and, best of all, by the great audiences that have packed the largest halls and opera houses to the doors; in many cases the interest being so great that every seat has been sold in advance and hundreds turned away unable even to obtain standing room.

One of these popular entertainments will be given under the auspices of Andover lodge, No. 230, I. O. O. F., in the Town hall, on Tuesday evening, November 20th.

It will be assured that one of our most respected and prominent citizens has been trifling with the affections of a young and beautiful lady of this town, and will have to answer to the breach of promise suit brought against him, and there will be fun without limit.

Indeed, it is safe to predict that it will be many moons before the walls of the Town hall will again re-echo with so much laughter as will be heard on that occasion. Additional interest will be created in the trial from the fact that a large number of our prominent people will be participants. All the rules of a regular court of justice will be observed.

POPULAR CIGAR STAND

How the Stock is Kept Just Right for Immediate Consumption.

The National Cigar Stands Company's enterprise is being watched with intense interest by cigar and tobacco men all over the world. The general impression is that it will revolutionize the cigar-retailing business.

Judging from the verdict of smokers the company has fulfilled its promise to supply the citizens of Andover with high-grade cigars at prices heretofore unknown in this section. The stand which was recently opened in W. A. Allen's drug store has been in operation long enough to prove that it has set a high standard of cigar quality and at the same time reduced prices.

The stand itself continues to attract attention because of its unusual appointments. Purely as an attractive display of cigars it excites comment among smokers and non-smokers alike. But its practical use as a preserver of cigars is of course its main feature. Its scientific construction that automatically maintains atmospheric conditions best suited to cigars seems to have done away with the usual cigar-stand complaints of "too dry" or "too moist".

Even the sceptics are forced to acknowledge that the 2,000 druggists in the National Cigar Stands Company can and do buy in quantities sufficiently vast to make low prices possible.

The smokers themselves are learning by direct, personal experience that the prospects are bright that their cigar bills will be cut in half.

Kaiser Hears Roosevelt Professor.

Professor John W. Burgess in his first address as Roosevelt professor of American history at Berlin university, in the presence of Emperor William, frankly attacked the American Monroe doctrine and the protective tariff policy. Professor Burgess told his distinguished German audience that American politicians had not the slightest idea that both theories were almost antiquated by the transformation of European states and their own constitution and by the assumption of world power. He said the time for protection was past and that the best interests of the world would be fostered by large Teutonic emigration to South America and the settlement of that region by persons fulfilling the demands of civilization. Before delivering his lecture the professor read a letter from President Roosevelt expressing his good will to the German university and referring to the close ties of kinship between the two countries. The kaiser proposed three cheers for President Roosevelt, which were given by all present.

Professor John W. Burgess.

A permanent American institute has been opened in one of the university buildings, where portraits of famous Americans and books on American history are to be preserved. Professor Burgess is dean of Columbia university.

New Russian Marriage Law.

A new marriage law, which changes the aspect of Russian society from the bottom, has been promulgated by the government. Hereafter all properly registered churches will be recognized in the registering of marriages, births, deaths, etc., and all of these may have their own organizations. Priests of any of these churches may conduct mixed marriages, whereas heretofore the law has required that where one parent is a member of the state church the children must be brought up in that church.

Lords Pass Education Bill.

The question of compulsory religious teaching in the public schools of Great Britain came before the house of lords on a motion to reverse the education bill as it passed the commons and requiring that children should attend the schools during religious instructions. This was carried by a vote of 59 to 258. This vote starts the long expected test of strength between opposing majorities in the houses of parliament on the education bill.

France Abolishes Death Penalty.

The French cabinet has approved the measure providing for the abolition of the death penalty, and the coming session of parliament will be expected to pass such a law. This is the policy of the new premier, M. Clemenceau. Already the chamber has cut off the salary of "M. de Paris," or the public executioner.

A Revolutionary Robbery.

Eight of the terrorists who were hanged at St. Petersburg had been concerned in the attack on the government money wagon in the streets of the city on Oct. 27. On that day as the carriage with its four mounted guards and four officials inside passed through a narrow lane behind the cathedral a bomb was thrown from a house window, exploding directly under the wheels. Then as the frightened officials jumped out of the carriage a body of fifteen revolutionists attacked the guards. During the excitement a boy seized packages of coin and bank notes to the amount of $200,000, then passed them to a woman, who made her escape. The boy and the men were arrested. The execution of revolutionists and mutineers continue at frequent intervals. The affair was planned to replenish the treasury of the revolutionary organization.

Mexico Fighting Beef Trust.

The Mexican government has decided to establish meat markets throughout the City of Mexico and sell meats at actual cost or lower if necessary to drive the meat trust out of business. This is due to the fact that the trust recently advanced the prices of meat so as to place it out of the reach of the poorer classes.

A Labor Party in Japan.

A party devoted to the improvement of labor conditions has issued a strong manifesto at the Japanese capital. The programme includes opposition to monopolies, universal male and female suffrage, general increase in wages and reduction of hours, the abolition of capital punishment powers and all titular distinction, fundamental reform in decision and arbitration in all international questions. This movement is understood to be inspired and led by the Socialists, whose number is readily increasing among the Japanese working class.

COMMERCIAL

Midvale Gets Foreign Contract.

The Italian government has given an order for 2,100 tons of armor plate, valued at $1,000,000, for an Italian warship to the Midvale Steel company of Philadelphia. The American company competed with five European firms, including the Krupps. Nevertheless the Midvale bid was $131 higher than the price offered to this government for armor.

Three Cent Fares a Fact.

Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland acted as motorman on the first trolley car to run over the three cent fare line of the Municipal Traction company Nov. 1. On the same car with him were officials of the company, city officials, and newspaper men, each of whom had paid 3 cents for one of the aluminium coins with a hole in the middle which are to be used in place of tickets. Crowds of men and women along the line cheered the mayor, who thus came out victor after five years of fighting in the courts against the traction combine. The company has thirteen and a half miles of track, but injunctions have closed all but three miles, which was the length of Mayor Johnson's trip. In the course of a speech the mayor said it was the happiest day of his life.

Cheaper New Zealand Postage.

Postmaster General Cortelyou has ordered that after Nov. 1 letters originating from New Zealand at the rate of a penny or 2 cents for each half ounce will be delivered in the United States without additional postage. The effect will be to bring the people of New Zealand into closer business relations with American industries.

LABOR

Unrest In Railroad Unions.

Demands for higher wages and shorter hours are being made by the heads of many railway labor unions, and the officials of various eastern trunk lines have engaged in conference with the union leaders in the hope of adjusting the difficulties amicably. The railroad managers attribute the demand of their employees to prosperous times, and there is a disposition to meet these demands halfway. On the Southern railway about 700 to 800 men are on strike for higher wages, as President Spencer was unwilling to meet their demands. B. F. Yoakum of the Rock Island says that an unusual demand for labor has been created by active business conditions. The railway trainmen rejected the offer of 2 cents an hour increase for switchmen on the C., B. and Q. and the C., M. and St. P. railroads.

Auto Cab Drivers Strike.

The electric cab drivers of the New York Transportation company have been on a strike to enforce their demand for better pay. The men demand a standard rate of $2.50 a day for twelve hours, with an hour for lunch and extra pay for overtime. They also want control of the benefit society, into which each pays 50 cents a month. The transportation company immediately began putting on new men and advertised $100 reward for evidence to convict any person using violence or intimidation toward its employees.

INDUSTRIAL

Three Thousand Mile Nonstop Run.

The two cylinder Maxwell automobile owned by F. H. Tyler completed a 3,000 mile nonstop run at New York, the feat being certified by an official of the American Automobile association racing board. The car had traveled this distance since the preceding Wednesday, or a week's run. The average speed was 19.23 miles an hour and the cost slightly under $50.

Harvester Trust Building Autos.

The International Harvester company, having become convinced of the utility of the motor car for farmers, has decided to go into the manufacture of these machines. It will turn out a low priced air cooled vehicle and be sold probably as low as $500 or $600. This car will follow the general lines of a buggy, the front wheels being forty inches and the rear wheels forty-four inches, fitted with solid rubber tires. It will have a two cylinder engine and will develop ten horsepower. It will be so arranged that the rear seat can be used for carrying merchandise or farm produce. The car will have a speed of twenty miles an hour.

Japs Leaving Hawaii.

Acting Governor Atkinson of Hawaii, who is now in Washington, says that the Japanese problem is solving itself by gradual emigration to the United States. Already several thousand have left. He says that the territory is enjoying an era of prosperity and that the crops are excellent.

EDUCATIONAL

Visit of English Teachers.

Last week 500 teachers from the various public schools in England began to arrive in companies of about forty a week under the leadership of Alfred Mosely for the purpose of studying American educational methods. This visit will include many large cities of the east and middle west and will extend over the greater part of the winter. The teachers represent every grade from the elementary to the university and are expected to make formal reports to their respective boards. It is a private enterprise, originating with Mr. Mosely. The expenses of the teachers are paid by themselves, but special rates have been made by the steamship and railroad companies.

College to Pay Smart Students.

Financial reward for high standing and financial loss for poor work on the part of students of Columbia university is the novel plan announced by the faculty officers for the year 1907-08. On this plan tuition is to be paid for on the basis of $5 per point, a point meaning the successful completion of work one hour a week for a half year. This would make the total course for the three years amount to $620, except where deduction is made for scholarship. Any student who is credited with ninety-four points may receive one point extra toward a higher degree. Thus it will be possible for a student to get twelve extra credits in three years, and for this $60 will be deducted from his tuition. On the other hand, a student loses $5 for every course in which he fails and the fee for delinquent examinations is $5.

San Francisco Stands Firm.

Officials of the San Francisco board of education have put themselves on record as being unwilling to yield to Washington influence or pressure in the matter of separate schools for orientals. President Altman said the board would be pleased to correct its mistake if any had been made. He claims that the responsibility lies with the state legislature, which authorized separate schools. Superintendent Ronconveri said that many of the so called Japanese school children were young men from twenty to twenty-five years old. All agreed that nothing could be done until the state law should be tested by the higher courts.

SOCIOLOGICAL

Our National Beverage Bill.

A national trade magazine estimates that the United States spent last year $220,000,000 for nonalcoholic drinks and $1,324,000,000 for alcoholic drinks. The figures apportioned to the various classes are: For cocoa, $8,000,000; for tea, $52,000,000; for coffee, $162,000,000; for wines, $96,000,000; for whisky, $457,000,000 and for beer, $771,000,000.

Mills Hotel For Women.

Two hundred delegates of the eleventh convention of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs pledged their support to a hotel for working women and girls and took steps toward the organization of a company for that purpose. A hotel of this character for working girls and women has already been in successful operation at Chicago, making a surplus of $2,000 the first year.

Mrs. Foster's New York.

The president has detailed Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, the noted woman lawyer and reformer, from the department for justice to investigate the condition of women and child workers throughout the country, on which subject legislation is now pending for congress. Last year Mrs. Foster made a special report on the condition of women and children in the Philippines, and only recently she returned from a trip around the world, during which she studied the women and child problem of China and India.

A Magazine For the Blind.

Through the charitable impulses of Mrs. William Ziegler, widow of the late head of the Royal Baking Powder company, the first periodical for the blind is about to be launched at New York for free distribution to 70,000 blind persons in the United States. It will contain news of the day and literary matter, besides letters from the inmates of blind institutions telling of their work and interests. The magazine will be printed in both systems of raised letters—namely, Braille and the New York point. Both are composed of characters based upon combination of raised dots so that the blind can detect the letters and words by the fingertips moving over the embossed surface. The new magazine is to contain 100 pages, which are of necessity printed only on one side, and as the paper has to be heavy each number will be a bulky book, but all books of the blind are carried through the mail without postage, and, making all allowance for this, the cost of the periodical is estimated at $60,000 per year. The bureau of education has been asked to furnish a list of the names and addresses of the blind persons capable of reading the point systems. The inspiration of this charity is Mrs. Ziegler's blind son, now forty years old, who lost his sight soon after birth. Walter S. Holmes is to be editor and manager. The offices are 1931 Broadway, and it is desired that persons knowing blind people shall forward their names and addresses to be put upon the free subscription list. A key to the point system will be sent free upon request.

MISCELLANEOUS

Large Fortune to Charity.

By the will of Mrs. Mary Cassilly of New York, who died two weeks ago, $600,000 will go directly to charitable purposes. Institutions in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati and Milwaukee are benefited.

Atlantic City Train Horror.

An electric train on the Pennsylvania new third rail line from Camden to Atlantic City on Oct. 28, filled with Philadelphia passengers, left the rails for some unknown reason just as it reached the drawbridge over Thoroughfare creek, which separates Atlantic City from the mainland, and plunged into twenty feet of water. A few of the crew and passengers managed to jump from the platforms or break through the windows, but fifty-eight were drowned like rats in a trap. The bridge tender testified that the rails were in place, and an examination of the submerged cars showed no broken flanges or other clew to the disaster.

Deaths.

Rockwood Hoar, son of the late senator of Massachusetts, died at his home at Worcester on Nov. 1.

Joseph E. Gary, judge of the superior court of Chicago, who presided over the anarchists' trials in 1886, died in his Chicago home on Oct. 31.

Dyspepsia of Women

Caused by Female Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has a peculiar tonic effect on the female organism.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Maggie Wright, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

"For two years I suffered with dyspepsia which so degenerated the entire system that I was unable to attend to my daily duties. I felt weak and nervous, and nothing that I ate tasted good and it caused a disturbance in my stomach. I tried different dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me. I was advised to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest my food. My recovery was rapid, and in five weeks I was a well woman. I have recommended it to many suffering women."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

METHUEN.

ELECTION IN METHUEN.

The election in Methuen passed off without any excitement. During the early hours it looked like a light vote, but the favorable weather, and the activity of the Republican town committee brought out a good vote before the close of the day. There were 1191 votes cast, 829 in precinct one, and 362 in precinct 2. Guild and Draper ran a little behind the ticket here, while George Bunting lead in both precincts. Moses Marshal, Butler Ames, and Joseph Donovan all received strong endorsement.

In precinct 2 the officers in charge were George Hartley chairman, John Dolan clerk, William Byrnes, Edward Moriarty, James Johnson and William Howells, inspectors. In precinct one George G. Frederick was chairman, and J. J. Sullivan was clerk. The inspectors were Charles Manion, Chas. Bird, Ernest Richardson, O. E. Lowell, John T. Dugdale, and Andrew Lawton. The result in the Arlington district, precinct two, was announced shortly before 6 o'clock, and in the village it was after seven before the result was known.

MR. SEARLES' REQUEST GRANTED

The following news item from Windham will be of local interest:

WNDHAM, Nov. 7—The question of giving up the school house and lot in former Districtt No. 1, to Edward F. Searles in exchange for a lot and a schoolhouse which he offers to build thereon, came before the voters of the town district in a special school meeting which convened yesterday at 1 o'clock in the town hall.

There was a spirited discussion as the plan involved the giving up of a portion of one of the main highways of the town which has been used as such for 168 years, and this will be a considerable inconvenience to a few people. However, the great majority of the voters present thought that the gain would be much greater than the loss and voted to accede to the request of Mr. Searles, by a vote of 70 or more to 8.

The present board of selectmen were chosen a committee to convey to Mr. Searles the old schoolhouse and lot and receive from him the new one, which is to be built in a style satisfactory to them.

Later in the afternoon it was voted in the town meeting to discontinue the two short pieces of road, one leading past the schoolhouse and the other branching from it, it being understood that the selecemen are to accept two other sections of road which Mr. Searles has built and offered to the town, which will accommodate most of the travel better than the roads which it was voted to discontinue.

FUNERAL OF ALBA A. FARR.

Simple, yet impressive were the services that marked the final earthly tribute to the late Alba A. Farr ere his body should be laid in it sfinal resting place. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home on Prospect street, and a large number of friends attended to pay their final tribute of respect to him whom all had known but to love. Friends were present from Amesbury, Salisbury, Andover, Lawrence, and Methuen.

The services were conducted by Rev. Charles H. Oliphant who spoke in highest terms of the noble character of the deceased, his broad Christian spirit that could not be bounded by denominational lines, and his evangelical tendencies which led him to improve all opportunities to direct others into the Christian pathways.

Miss Ada Farr and Mrs. Lord rendered, "Abide with Me," and by special request, Mr. Farr's favorite hymn, "My Jesus I Love Thee."

Surrounding the bier were a large number of beautiful floral tributes from friends, silently but eloquently telling of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The plate on the casket bore the simple inscription:

ALBA A. FARR.
1823—1906.

Burial took place in the family lot in Walnut Grove cemetery. The pall bearers were the six grandsons of the deceased: David C. Farr, Warren Dearborn, Allen Dearborn, George Farr, Arthur Kelley, and Harry Stearns.

TO KEEP WINDOWS CLEAN.

Rub a cloth slightly moistened with paraffin, afterwards polishing with dry soft dusters or chamois leather. The paraffin prevents flies settling and making marks on the glass.

BAKED POTATOES.

For this purpose you should select smooth medium-sized potatoes. Wash in cold water, using a vegetable brush, and place in a dripping-pan. Bake in a hot oven forty minutes or until soft. Rupture the skin of each by pressing potatoes between the fingers, so that the steam may escape (which prevents the potatoes from becoming soggy), and serve at once.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION ENTERTAINED ITS FRIENDS.

The Lawrence Typographical Union No. 51 held its annual banquet at the Franklin house last Saturday evening. This event is always looked forward to with keen anticipation by the journeymen printers and the apprentices to the trade. This latest occasion saw them all gathered about the boards.

The guests of the evening were the master printers and several of the city's best known public men. Mayor John P. Kane and Mayor Roswell Wood of Haverhill both gave their word that they would attend but neither put in his appearance. Mayor Casey of Lowell expressed his regret when an invitation was tendered him by the committee on arrangements saying that a previous engagement would make it impossible for him to be present.

Hon. John N. Cole, speaker of the House of Representatives, also publisher of the Lawrence Telegram and Andover Townsman was the honored guest of the evening. It meant special endeavor on his part to be present as he had been speaking throughout the week, and Saturday evening is usually an evening for rest. But he attended and said that he was glad to be there. His remarks were not long but to the point and enjoyed by all. He took for the subject of his address "Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

It was sometime after 8 o'clock, the hour set for the banquet that all had arrived and the doors of the large dining hall were thrown open to the expectant throng. About a hundred gathered about the tables. The menue was of the true Franklin House style, served quickly and well. The different courses were relished by all. The menue follows:

Blue Points on the Half Shell.
Stuffed Olives, Celery
Puree of Tomato Cut Souffles
French Radishes.
Broiled Fresh Salmon,
Sauce Princess
Pommes Parisienne
Young Vervont Turkey
Cranberry Sauce
Green Peas Mashed Potatoes
Braised Fillet of Beef,
Mushroom Sauce
Banana Fritters
Benedictine Sauce
Lobster Salad en Mayonnaise
Frozen St. Croix Pudding
Assorted Cake Mixed Fruit
Cream Cheese
Florentine Wafers
Demi Tasse Cafe.

Peter R. Saint, president of the Lawrence Typo's Union and chairman of the committee on arrangements, when once the feasting was through opened the post prandial exercises by introducing Matthew DeGray Ripon as the toastmaster of the evening. He introduced Hon. John N. Cole as the first speaker.

Music followed and then Manager L. E. Bennink of the Reid and Hughes Co., was asked to respond to the toast, "Employer and Employe." The manner in which he handled his topic won him great applause and it is assured that he will be looked upon as an honorary member of local 51, from now on. Mr. Bennink spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman:—

You have given me a subject so broad in its scope, so full of untold possibilities that no man can go into it fully and rightly in the few moments I may take. It is a subject that has puzzled the keenest, profoundest minds and no after-dinner remarks can cover all it contains. From the days when the Egyptian employer made his Israelitish workmen make bricks without straw and the Jew struck work and left the country—from the days of the Guilds of the Netherlands with their enormous power and wealth, down to the present day the question of Capital and Labor or Employer and Employe has engaged many minds and has brought forth volumes of rhetoric, declamatory, defamatory, wise and otherwise.

How then can you expect a plain business man to settle, or give new light upon, a question that is still in the throes of discussion and has in it mighty potentials?

Answer me this, and, if you can, you may realize my feelings as I sat alone last night and tried to be a philosopher—and gave it up—tried to be an historian—and couldn't—tried to know it all—and failed—and then said to myself, "Why you are an employer and have been an employe, which job do you like better?" Well, I am going to try and keep the present one, and try hard too. It cost me many thinks and knocks to get there, and while my hours are not timed by the clock and the gray hairs will persist in coming, still there is a deep fascination in trying to see if I can hang to the round of the ladder I'm on and climb still higher.

The question of the Employer and Employe is very broad, yet it can be reduced to You and Me, or Me and You. In this competition no man is safe. I have seen men of wealth go down and men of small purses and big brains go up. It is in the I. The true Ego of the individual determines the question.

Vital energy, thinking capacity, willingness to learn and do—these make for success—these make the employer. Always learning, always studying conditions and trying to take advantage of them,—never resting,—mental forces always at work—strong will and stronger patience—here's the employer.

It is You, it is Me, but these things must be part and parcel of the man at the head. Without these comes failure. But with him is the employe supplementary to all that with which nature has endowed the employer—and to whom and for whom the employer owes a great responsibility,—those of cunning handicraft who supplement and fill out that which he lacks. His the will, the force to do. His the contriving brain. His the power of greater or lesser wealth.

What is the relation between the two? Shall it be the relation of might over justice? Shall it be the relation of the strong over the weak?

Shall it be the subtle mind betraying the mind not so keen?

If so then it is that which works for eternal unrest; but the true duty of the stronger is through his strength to uplift and yet again uplift,—"to ease the heavy burden and to break every yoke.

To the mind of the thinker must be joined the hand of the craftsman that together they may labor for the good of both and then will the only true progress come.

You remember Longfellow's beautiful words in Hiawatha:—

"As unto the bow the cord is
So unto man is woman;
Though she bends him she obeys him;
Though she draws him yet she follows
Useless each without the other."

There's the philosophy of the whole matter.

Employer and Employe, "Useless each without the other." Then what? Fair treatment! and this applies to both. The natural tendency of power is towards selfishness. This must be remembered,—no good can come from abuse of power on either side.

Fair treatment must come from the employer and equally fair treatment from the employe. Both are growing gigantically strong. Both must grow giantically sensible. The employer must be fair in time, money and treatment to the employe. The employe must give full return for that which he engages to do. There must be no cutting of corners by either, but the dollar for which both strive must be given fairly and earned fairly.

Let neither one cut nicks in it with the idea of gain, for worse than waste is in the process—it is dishonesty.

Wiser minds than mine have tried and are trying to solve the relation between Employer and Employe. Many hearts have ached, many wrongs have been done. Force has been met with force and the cry of the ages has been for justice. The shout of the oppressor the cry of the oppressed have ascended to heaven again and again, and the wrongs done by the one have been resented by the strong ahnd of the other. Vegeance has followed injustice as power came to the weaker. Men have forgotten reason and returned to the primal lows of vengeance.

Reason has forgotten her own, but through the darkness and storm of old days shines a brighter light and the path grows clearer. Shame and dishonor face those who deal unfairly and the old days are passing. Reason and justice cry aloud and the day of the Galilean is coming when it shall be a glory to say "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." In that day shall the riddle be read.

Supt. of Schools Bernard M. Sheridan was another of the evening's most prominent speakers. The scholarly manner in which he treated his subject, "Printing Art in Education," was truly a treat. He sounded a cry against the yellow tendencies which prevail in journalism today.

Others who spoke were Henry Sterling, secretary of the Boston Typographical Union.

The entertainment feature of the evening was highly enjoyable. Edward Davis acted as accompanist for the following soloists: B. J. Keaveny, James J. Carney, Arthur Helman, George Harris, Walter J. Downes, William C. Farrell, Louis Dempsey, and William B. Bartley.

The banquet committee included the following: Peter R. Sainte, chairman ex-officio, Robert S. Maloney, George Barnfield, Thomas O'Connor, Charles Spear, Matthew DeGray Ripon, John Hancock and James A. Hyde.

ISSUE STATEMENT TO ATLANTIC MILL SOTCKHOLDERS

In pursuance of a recent offer of a half a million of dollars made to the directors of the Atlantic Cotton mills for the plant in this city and the endeavor on the part of certain parties to gain possession of shares of stock at $55 and later $65 a share, the directors issued Tuesday the following statement which has been sent out to all of the stockholders. It reads:

To the Stockholders of the Atlantic Cotton Mills:

Some weeks ago your Directors received an offer of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) for the real estate and machinery of the Atlantic Cotton mills. The capital stock being one million dollars ($1,000,000) this offer for a portion of the company's assets amounted to fifty dollars ($50) per share. In addition, the purchaser would undoubtedly seek to buy the stock in process at a fair appraisal and the proceeds thereof, together with the balance of the company's quick assets, including cotton and supplies on hand, manufactured goods, accounts receivable, etc., would in the event of a sale of the plant and the liquidation of the company's affairs, be divided pro rata among all the shareholders. The last six-months account in May 1906, showed quick assets amounting to about $168,000, or $16.80 per share in addition to the $50 above named, but the earnings of the past six months as the mill is believed to be in successful and profitable operation, will increase the value of the quick assets to an amount which can be definitely known only when the accounts are concluded in December. In the absence of definite knowledge as to the present value of the company's quick assets, your directors felt that they could not give stockholders the information required to enable them to act satisfactorily with reference to any proposition for the purchase of either the plant or the shares in the corporation and notified the parties seeking to purchase the plant that until the completion of the company's six-months' account in December reference to the stockholders of their proposition would be delayed.

Your directors have not sought purchasers for either the plant or the shares in the company's capital stock, yet witin a few days stockholders have undoubtedly received propositions.

In common with many of the company's largest stockholders, your directors have sold none of their holdings nor given options thereon. They do not seek to influence the conduct of other shareholders, but under all the circumstances have deemed it proper that they should be in possession of the foregoing facts.

Should it seem desirable, a special meeting of the stockholders to consider any proposition for purchase can be held either in December upon the preparation of the current account, or at the annual meeting in January, at which latter time it will be necessary, among other things, to elect a permanent treasurer because of the ill health of Mr. Prescott.

Very truly yours,
H. B. RICHARDSON,
Treasurer, pro tem.

Boston, November 6, 1906.

Philip M. Tucker, 35 Congress street, Boston, sent out circulars to shareholders some few days ago announcing that he had been authorized to pay $65 per share for the stock. He states that the offer is made by parties who believe that the mills can be made to pay a handsome profit under different management.

The Atlantic Cotton Mills plant is the oldest manufacturing plant in the city. It is capitalized at $1,000,000. Of the 10,000 shares about 1,000 are held in this city and an equal number in Lowell. This year a dividend of $5 per share was declared. The earnings for the year were $300,000.

AGED MAN RUN OVER MAY DIE FROM INJURIES.

A telephone call at 6.20 o'clock Wednesday evening summoned the police ambulance to the corner of Melvin and Orford streets, where Auguste Picard, a man 68 years old and residing at 235 Salem street, had been knocked down and run over by a team driven by Benjamin Handler of 146 Arlington street.

Inquiry devioped the details of the affair, which were that the old gentleman, accompanied by two ladies, was about to cross the street at the corner named, when Handler who was driving around the corner, shouted out a warning. The women heard, and stopped, but the old man stepped out and was struck by the team, the hind wheels of the buggy passing over him.

The victim of the accident was rendered unconscious and was in the same condition when the Cottage hospital, to which he was removed, was reached.

Inquiry at the hospital this afternoon developed the fact that the unfortunate man has not yet regained consciousness, and it is feared that his injuries will prove fatal. Acting City Physician Daly believes that the man is seriously injured internally, and that he also suffered a hemorrhage of the brain.

Handler came to the police station this morning and acknowledged being the driver of the team. He was allowed to go, as the injured man's condition at that time was unknown to the police. The present condition of the injured man however, will probably result in the holding of Handler on bonds pending the result.

THE 22ND ANNUAL MEETING.

as taught in the conference by Mrs. Helen Montgomery of Rochester, N. Y. "Don't expect your missionary meeting to prosper without preparation," she said; "and do not kill it with long papers which are read. Short, brief oral talks given by many without reference to the written page are what hold attention and interest."

Mrs. F. E. Fowle of Lexington led the closing devotional meeting of the morning.

Luncheon was served by the ladies of the Bedford church to about 100 guests. The tables were beautifully decorated with small clusters of oak leaves and tiny sprays of the barberry shrub, bright with scarlet berries. Bouquets of white chrysanthemums were on the centres of all the tables. The menu included, potato, chicken and cabbage salads, cold ham, baked beans, rolls, a variety of pies, fruit and coffee.

Mrs. C. N. Harris of Winchester opened the afternoon session with an account of the "Haystack anniversaries" at North Adams. Among other things she said, "Missionary work is largely a creation of atmosphere."

An organ selection was given by Mrs. John H. Hern of Woburn, who was also the accompanist of the day.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Edward Y. Hincks, Andover; vice-presidents, Mrs. Joshua Colt, Winchester; Mrs. A. L. Decator, Maplewood; Mrs. B. A. Dumm, Stoneham; Mrs. F. L. Fowle, Lexington; Mrs. J. B. Field, Lowell; Mrs. Edward S. Gould, Lawrence; Miss S. P. Harrold, Melrose; Mrs. S. K. Hamilton, Wakefield; Mrs. D. N. Wood, Woburn; Mrs. E. G. Loomis, Bedford; Mrs. G. E. Martin, Malden; Mrs. C. H. Oliphant, Methuen; Mrs. E. A. Stevens, Dracut; Mrs. C. E. Swett, Winchester; Mrs. J. B. Hyler, Billerica; recording secretary, Mrs. Frederick W. Whittemore, Andover; corresponding secretary, Miss Fanny Brown, Andover; assistant, Miss Elizabeth G. Redfern, Winchester; Junior Auxiliary and Mission Circle secretary, Mrs. Harry Wade Hicks, Melrose Highlands; home secretary, Miss E. Josephine Wilcox, Medford; treasurer, Mrs. C. C. Richardson, 22 Berkeley street, Reading, auditor, Charles H. Nowell, Reading.

Miss Plastridge and Miss Wood both of Bedford sang. 'As the Heart Panteth. After the Waterbrooks."

Dr. Julia Bissell, a returned missionary from Ahmednaga, India, gave an interesting account of medical work at her station. Hundreds of thousands of the people of India have only one meal a day. They have no knowledge of improper foods; many of their house are labeled U. H. H (unfit for human habitation) by the order of government after having been inspected. The people are absolutely careless in the use of running water, and its contamination leads to cholera fevers and plague. They are absolutely lacking in public spirit, and when they have money they spend it for jewelry, gold and silver utensils for the home, rather than for the health of the country. Malaria is prevalent, and small pox common. Lack of drainage causes mosquitoes, and they spread disease. Tuberculosis is very common, because of the poor hygiene, poor food and poor nourishment. The Woman's Board started hospital work in Ahmednager 17 years ago, and now there are 50 patients, and it has two physicians and one trained nurse in attendance.

Miss Kate Lamson, of Boston, secretary of the Woman's Board, gave an earnest appeal for cordial and hearty support of the work. Opportunities are broadening as never before both on the Home and Foreign fields.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to the ladies of the Bedford church for kind hospitality and to the musicians for selections rendered.

There was a large delegation present from the Congregational churches of Lowell and vicinity, 16 going from Kirk street church.

A Question of Bravery.

The following abstract from an old newspaper of 1839, possibly issued in Boston, seems to settle the matter alluded to on page 323 of Bailey's "Historical Sketches", as to which warrior John Barker shouldered during that eventful retreat.

Who carried Capt. Ben Farnum from the field is now the conundrum. Maybe John secured both trophies, as both men were wounded. As the Farnhams claim Barker did it, but the majority of Abbott and Barker family claim the service for Isaac Abbott. We have yet to learn the name of the devoted comrade whose love for Ben was greater than that for his own safety. There were two John Barkers in the Farnum company to have honors. C. H. A.

"In Andover, Mass., Oct. 8, 1839, Mr. John Barker, aged 86 years and 6 months. Mr. Barker was an enterprising and successful farmer, a Revolutionary patriot, and an honest man. He was at the surrender of Burgoyne, and in the battle of Bunker Hill. On the latter occasion he was the means of saving the life of Lt. Isaac Abbot, afterwards many years deacon of the South church in Andover. Mr. Barker, being among the last to retreat, and finding Lt. Abbot prostrate and helpless from loss of blood caused by a severe wound, took him upon his shoulders, and thus by an uncommon exertion of courage and strength, and at the risk of his own life, carried him to a place of safety."

Notes on the Game.

The following notes regarding the Andover-Exeter game have been issued by Manager Rafferty.

A special train will leave Boston for Andover, Saturday morning, November 10, returning immediately after the game. Special return trip tickets will be sold costing seventy-three (73) cents. Don't save money by—
Using cheap soap. You will ruin your complexion and have to buy cold cream if you do.
Sewing in the dusk. Gaslight is cheaper than oculist's bills.
Wearing thin clothing. Flannel is cheaper and better than medicine.
Going without luncheon. You will injure your health and digestion if you do.
Walking when overtired to avoid 'bus fares. You save in money, but undermine your constitution.
Overworking. Nobody thanks you. You will be cross and irritable, and your husband will wish you were not so zealous.

Punchard Notes.

A basket ball game was played on the Punchard grounds on Wednesday afternoon between teams representing the classes of 1907-09 against 1908-10. The two former classes were victorious by a score of 14 to 8 in a very interesting game.

A very pleasant and enjoyable Hallowe'en party was held in the school hall last Friday evening, nearly every scholar being present. Everyone wore a costume of some ancient period or of a grotesque character, and all were masked. A grand march was first enjoyed, led by Miss Hosmer and Frank Smith, jr., and afterward the masks were taken off and appropriate games were played. Refreshments consisting of doughnuts, cheese, pop corn, pickles and fruit were served.

At a recent meeting of the Senior class the following committee was elected to arrange for the annual play in January: Clarence O'Connell, Helen Bailey, Philip Hardy, Helen Eaton and Marjory Davies.

There will be an art exhibition in the school hall all next week, the exhibit coming from Boston. An admission will be charged, the proceeds going toward swelling the funds of the Athletic Association.

The annual Goldsmith prize speaking will be held on December 7.
